LANDSCAPE DESIGNERS

Focused on creating well-balanced and beautiful landscapes for a wide range of mostly residential clients, Seattle's Vertumni Fine Landscaping and Gardening (206.371.7746; vertumni.com) was named after the Roman god of the changing seasons who transformed himself again and again to win the hand of the garden goddess Pomona. Bruce Bond, a professional horticulturist with two decades of experience, launched the firm in 2001 to put some of his artistic concepts from wilderness backpacking trips into practice in people's back yards. Beyond its designs that borrow heavily from nature, the firm is committed to organic installations and maintenance, and works hard to improve the environments it is hired to create and sustain. The firm's six full-time staffers have worked with Bond for years, so clients are likely to get the same crew maintaining their back yard that created it in the first place.
